Injunction sought in Conn suit

by Tony Fyffe
BSN MANAGING EDITOR

PIKEVILLE — A federal judge has been asked for an injunction prohibiting a Floyd County attorney from dissipating any assets acquired from alleged false disability claims filed with the Social Security Administration. A motion filed last Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Pikeville by plaintiffs in a lawsuit seeks a preliminary injunction against Stanville attorney Eric C. Conn.

The motion asks Judge Amul R. Thapar for a preliminary injunction ordering Conn, his law firm and “all those in concert or privity with him to immediately cease and desist from dissipating any and all interest acquired and maintained as a result of law before” the Social Security Administration in an amount at least equal to the $22,699,586.65.

That’s the amount Conn, his law firm and others received as attorney’s fees and costs from the SSA as a result of disability claims filed with the agency, according to the motion.

The injunction would also affect “any property, securities, or any other property constituting and derived from proceeds obtained directly or indirectly acquired as a result of the false claims submitted to the Social Security Administration which are subject to this action.”

Current SSA employee Sarah Carver and former worker Jennifer Griffith filed the lawsuit against Conn and retired administrative law judge David B. Daugherty, claiming they conspired in a scheme to bilk millions of dollars from the SSA through fraudulent disability claims filed by Conn on behalf of clients who

LOUISA — The case of a Johnson County man charged with murder in the death of a motorcyclist following a high-speed chase Oct. 4 was waived to the Lawrence County Grand Jury at his preliminary hearing in Lawrence District Court last Wednesday.

Joshua A. Fitzpatrick, 34, of Paintsville, is charged with murder, first-degree fleeing and evading police, operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol/drugs and driving on a suspended operators license.

No testimony was heard during the hearing, and although he was present, Fitzpatrick didn’t go before the judge.

Fitzpatrick is being represented by attorney Eldred “Bud” Adams of Louisa.

According to a press release issued by the Kentucky State Police at Post 14 in Ashland, authorities received a report of a vehicle traveling north in a reckless manner on U.S. 23 at 6:28 p.m. Oct. 4, and KSP Trooper Devan Cleaver responded.

Cleaver located the tan 2001 Toyota Camry driven by Fitzpatrick and observed violations, at which time he initiated his emergency equipment and attempted to conduct a traffic stop, the release said. But the vehicle accelerated and traveled

GREENUP — A Greenup County freshman was arrested Friday night and charged in connection with carrying a concealed weapon onto school property during the Greenup County High School football homecoming game against Johnson Central.

The identity of the 15-year old boy has not been released, but he reportedly had a loaded 9 mm pistol and a fully loaded magazine as well as a box of extra ammunition.

Greenup County Sheriff Keith M.

Cooper said the student claimed he didn’t plan to use the weapon but just wanted to appear “cool” and that he had purchased the weapon online.

Cooper said that the student raised his shirt and showed some football players the weapon, and the players reported it to the coach. Law enforcement was then called.

Cooper said that if they are able to figure out who sold the weapon to the juvenile, both he and the ATF are going to want to talk to them.

“He’s a boy, but he’s facing a man’s charges, and it’ll be up to the court system to see what happens to him,” Cooper said in a WSAZ interview.

LOUISA — The case of a Johnson County man charged with murder in the death of a motorcyclist following a high-speed chase Oct. 4 was waived to the Lawrence County Grand Jury at his preliminary hearing in Lawrence District Court last Wednesday. Joshua A. Fitzpatrick, 34, of Paintsville, is charged with murder, first-degree fleeing and evading police, operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol/drugs and driving on a suspended operators license. No testimony was heard during the hearing, and although he was present, Fitzpatrick didn’t go before the judge. Fitzpatrick is being represented by attorney Eldred “Bud” Adams of Louisa. According to a press release issued by the Kentucky State Police at Post 14 in Ashland, authorities received a report of a vehicle traveling north in a reckless manner on U.S. 23 at 6:28 p.m. Oct. 4, and KSP Trooper Devan Cleaver responded. Cleaver located the tan 2001 Toyota Camry driven by Fitzpatrick and observed violations, at which time he initiated his emergency equipment and attempted to conduct a traffic stop, the release said. But the vehicle accelerated and traveled

GREENUP — A Greenup County freshman was arrested Friday night and charged in connection with carrying a concealed weapon onto school property during the Greenup County High School football homecoming game against Johnson Central. The identity of the 15-year old boy has not been released, but he reportedly had a loaded 9 mm pistol and a fully loaded magazine as well as a box of extra ammunition. Greenup County Sheriff Keith M. Cooper said the student claimed he didn’t plan to use the weapon but just wanted to appear “cool” and that he had purchased the weapon online. Cooper said that the student raised his shirt and showed some football players the weapon, and the players reported it to the coach. Law enforcement was then called. Cooper said that if they are able to figure out who sold the weapon to the juvenile, both he and the ATF are going to want to talk to them. “He’s a boy, but he’s facing a man’s charges, and it’ll be up to the court system to see what happens to him,” Cooper said in a WSAZ interview.

LOUISA — The case of a Johnson County man charged with murder in the death of a motorcyclist following a high-speed chase Oct. 4 was waived to the Lawrence County Grand Jury at his preliminary hearing in Lawrence District Court last Wednesday. Joshua A. Fitzpatrick, 34, of Paintsville, is charged with murder, first-degree fleeing and evading police, operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol/drugs and driving on a suspended operators license. No testimony was heard during the hearing, and although he was present, Fitzpatrick didn’t go before the judge. Fitzpatrick is being represented by attorney Eldred “Bud” Adams of Louisa. According to a press release issued by the Kentucky State Police at Post 14 in Ashland, authorities received a report of a vehicle traveling north in a reckless manner on U.S. 23 at 6:28 p.m. Oct. 4, and KSP Trooper Devan Cleaver responded. Cleaver located the tan 2001 Toyota Camry driven by Fitzpatrick and observed violations, at which time he initiated his emergency equipment and attempted to conduct a traffic stop, the release said. GREENUP — A Greenup County freshman was arrested Friday night and charged in connection with carrying a concealed weapon onto school property during the Greenup County High School football homecoming game against Johnson Central. The identity of the 15-year old boy has not been released, but he reportedly had a loaded 9 mm pistol and a fully loaded magazine as well as a box of extra ammunition. Greenup County Sheriff Keith M. Cooper said the student claimed he didn’t plan to use the weapon but just wanted to appear “cool” and that he had purchased the weapon online. Cooper said that the student raised his shirt and showed some football players the weapon, and the players reported it to the coach. Law enforcement was then called. Cooper said that if they are able to figure out who sold the weapon to the juvenile, both he and the ATF are going to want to talk to them. “He’s a boy, but he’s facing a man’s charges, and it’ll be up to the court system to see what happens to him,” Cooper said in a WSAZ interview.

Injunction sought in Conn suit

PIKEVILLE — A federal judge has been asked for an injunction prohibiting a Floyd County attorney from dissipating any assets acquired from alleged false disability claims filed with the Social Security Administration. A motion filed last Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Pikeville by plaintiffs in a lawsuit seeks a preliminary injunction against Stanville attorney Eric C. Conn.

The motion asks Judge Amul R. Thapar for a preliminary injunction ordering Conn, his law firm and “all those in concert or privity with him to immediately cease and desist from dissipating any and all interest acquired and maintained as a result of law before” the Social Security Administration in an amount at least equal to the $22,699,586.65.

That’s the amount Conn, his law firm and others received as attorney’s fees and costs from the SSA as a result of disability claims filed with the agency, according to the motion.

The injunction would also affect “any property, securities, or any other property constituting and derived from proceeds obtained directly or indirectly acquired as a result of the false claims submitted to the Social Security Administration which are subject to this action.”

Current SSA employee Sarah Carver and former worker Jennifer Griffith filed the lawsuit against Conn and retired administrative law judge David B. Daugherty, claiming they conspired in a scheme to bilk millions of dollars from the SSA through fraudulent disability claims filed by Conn on behalf of clients who

LOUISA — The case of a Johnson County man charged with murder in the death of a motorcyclist following a high-speed chase Oct. 4 was waived to the Lawrence County Grand Jury at his preliminary hearing in Lawrence District Court last Wednesday. Joshua A. Fitzpatrick, 34, of Paintsville, is charged with murder, first-degree fleeing and evading police, operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol/drugs and driving on a suspended operators license. No testimony was heard during the hearing, and although he was present, Fitzpatrick didn’t go before the judge. Fitzpatrick is being represented by attorney Eldred “Bud” Adams of Louisa. According to a press release issued by the Kentucky State Police at Post 14 in Ashland, authorities received a report of a vehicle traveling north in a reckless manner on U.S. 23 at 6:28 p.m. Oct. 4, and KSP Trooper Devan Cleaver responded. Cleaver located the tan 2001 Toyota Camry driven by Fitzpatrick and observed violations, at which time he initiated his emergency equipment and attempted to conduct a traffic stop, the release said. But the vehicle accelerated and traveled

A Webbville man died as a result of injuries suffered in an all-terrain vehicle accident Oct. 10 in Lawrence County. Clifford E. Lawrence County sheriff’s deputies responded to the accident on North Highway 201 and discovered Tomblin had lost control of his ATV and gone off the right side of the roadway, a press release issued by the Lawrence County Sheriff’s Office said. Tomblin was ejected from the ATV. The accident is under investigation by Deputy Dwayne Bowen, who was assisted at the scene by other members of the Lawrence County Sheriff’s Office, Blaine Fire Department, Kentucky Fish and Wildlife and Wilson.

INEZ — The Martin County Grand Jury issued 20 indictments Oct. 10. Named in the true bills were: • Charlie Jude, 43, of Inez, charged with prescription of a controlled substance not in the proper container, operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol or drugs, and possession/use of drug paraphernalia. Cooper said that the student raised his shirt and showed some football players the weapon, and the players reported it to the coach. Law enforcement was then called. Cooper said that if they are able to figure out who sold the weapon to the juvenile, both he and the ATF are going to want to talk to them. “He’s a boy, but he’s facing a man’s charges, and it’ll be up to the court system to see what happens to him,” Cooper said in a WSAZ interview.

PIKEVILLE — A federal judge has been asked for an injunction prohibiting a Floyd County attorney from dissipating any assets acquired from alleged false disability claims filed with the Social Security Administration. A motion filed last Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Pikeville by plaintiffs in a lawsuit seeks a preliminary injunction against Stanville attorney Eric C. Conn. The motion asks Judge Amul R. Thapar for a preliminary injunction ordering Conn, his law firm and “all those in concert or privity with him to immediately cease and desist from dissipating any and all interest acquired and maintained as a result of law before” the Social Security Administration in an amount at least equal to the $22,699,586.65. That’s the amount Conn, his law firm and others received as attorney’s fees and costs from the SSA as a result of disability claims filed with the agency, according to the motion. The injunction would also affect “any property, securities, or any other property constituting and derived from proceeds obtained directly or indirectly acquired as a result of the false claims submitted to the Social Security Administration which are subject to this action.” Current SSA employee Sarah Carver and former worker Jennifer Griffith filed the lawsuit against Conn and retired administrative law judge David B. Daugherty, claiming they conspired in a scheme to bilk millions of dollars from the SSA through fraudulent disability claims filed by Conn on behalf of clients who

GREENUP — A Greenup County freshman was arrested Friday night and charged in connection with carrying a concealed weapon onto school property during the Greenup County High School football homecoming game against Johnson Central. The identity of the 15-year old boy has not been released, but he reportedly had a loaded 9 mm pistol and a fully loaded magazine as well as a box of extra ammunition. Greenup County Sheriff Keith M. GREENUP — A Greenup County freshman was arrested Friday night and charged in connection with carrying a concealed weapon onto school property during the Greenup County High School football homecoming game against Johnson Central.

The identity of the 15-year old boy has not been released, but he reportedly had a loaded 9 mm pistol and a fully loaded magazine as well as a box of extra ammunition.

Greenup County Sheriff Keith M.

Cooper said the student claimed he didn’t plan to use the weapon but just wanted to appear “cool” and that he had purchased the weapon online.

Cooper said that the student raised his shirt and showed some football players the weapon, and the players reported it to the coach. Law enforcement was then called.

Cooper said that if they are able to figure out who sold the weapon to the juvenile, both he and the ATF are going to want to talk to them.

“He’s a boy, but he’s facing a man’s charges, and it’ll be up to the court system to see what happens to him,” Cooper said in a WSAZ interview.

PIKEVILLE — A federal judge has been asked for an injunction prohibiting a Floyd County attorney from dissipating any assets acquired from alleged false disability claims filed with the Social Security Administration. A motion filed last Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Pikeville by plaintiffs in a lawsuit seeks a preliminary injunction against Stanville attorney Eric C. Conn. The motion asks Judge Amul R. Thapar for a preliminary injunction ordering Conn, his law firm and “all those in concert or privity with him to immediately cease and desist from dissipating any and all interest acquired and maintained as a result of law before” the Social Security Administration in an amount at least equal to the $22,699,586.65. That’s the amount Conn, his law firm and others received as attorney’s fees and costs from the SSA as a result of disability claims filed with the agency, according to the motion. The injunction would also affect “any property, securities, or any other property constituting and derived from proceeds obtained directly or indirectly acquired as a result of the false claims submitted to the Social Security Administration which are subject to this action.” Current SSA employee Sarah Carver and former worker Jennifer Griffith filed the lawsuit against Conn and retired administrative law judge David B. Daugherty, claiming they conspired in a scheme to bilk millions of dollars from the SSA through fraudulent disability claims filed by Conn on behalf of clients who

LOUISA — The case of a Johnson County man charged with murder in the death of a motorcyclist following a high-speed chase Oct. 4 was waived to the Lawrence County Grand Jury at his preliminary hearing in Lawrence District Court last Wednesday. Joshua A. Fitzpatrick, 34, of Paintsville, is charged with murder, first-degree fleeing and evading police, operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol/drugs and driving on a suspended operators license. No testimony was heard during the hearing, and although he was present, Fitzpatrick didn’t go before the judge. Fitzpatrick is being represented by attorney Eldred “Bud” Adams of Louisa. According to a press release issued by the Kentucky State Police at Post 14 in Ashland, authorities received a report of a vehicle traveling north in a reckless manner on U.S. 23 at 6:28 p.m. Oct. 4, and KSP Trooper Devan Cleaver responded. Cleaver located the tan 2001 Toyota Camry driven by Fitzpatrick and observed violations, at which time he initiated his emergency equipment and attempted to conduct a traffic stop, the release said. But the vehicle accelerated and traveled

GREENUP — A Greenup County freshman was arrested Friday night and charged in connection with carrying a concealed weapon onto school property during the Greenup County High School football homecoming game against Johnson Central. The identity of the 15-year old boy has not been released, but he reportedly had a loaded 9 mm pistol and a fully loaded magazine as well as a box of extra ammunition. Greenup County Sheriff Keith M. Cooper said the student claimed he didn’t plan to use the weapon but just wanted to appear “cool” and that he had purchased the weapon online. Cooper said that the student raised his shirt and showed some football players the weapon, and the players reported it to the coach. Law enforcement was then called. Cooper said that if they are able to figure out who sold the weapon to the juvenile, both he and the ATF are going to want to talk to them. “He’s a boy, but he’s facing a man’s charges, and it’ll be up to the court system to see what happens to him,” Cooper said in a WSAZ interview.

PIKEVILLE — A federal judge has been asked for an injunction prohibiting a Floyd County attorney from dissipating any assets acquired from alleged false disability claims filed with the Social Security Administration. A motion filed last Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Pikeville by plaintiffs in a lawsuit seeks a preliminary injunction against Stanville attorney Eric C. Conn. The motion asks Judge Amul R. Thapar for a preliminary injunction ordering Conn, his law firm and “all those in concert or privity with him to immediately cease and desist from dissipating any and all interest acquired and maintained as a result of law before” the Social Security Administration in an amount at least equal to the $22,699,586.65. That’s the amount Conn, his law firm and others received as attorney’s fees and costs from the SSA as a result of disability claims filed with the agency, according to the motion. The injunction would also affect “any property, securities, or any other property constituting and derived from proceeds obtained directly or indirectly acquired as a result of the false claims submitted to the Social Security Administration which are subject to this action.” Current SSA employee Sarah Carver and former worker Jennifer Griffith filed the lawsuit against Conn and retired administrative law judge David B. Daugherty, claiming they conspired in a scheme to bilk millions of dollars from the SSA through fraudulent disability claims filed by Conn on behalf of clients who

LOUISA — The case of a Johnson County man charged with murder in the death of a motorcyclist following a high-speed chase Oct. 4 was waived to the Lawrence County Grand Jury at his preliminary hearing in Lawrence District Court last Wednesday. Joshua A. Fitzpatrick, 34, of Paintsville, is charged with murder, first-degree fleeing and evading police, operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol/drugs and driving on a suspended operators license. No testimony was heard during the hearing, and although he was present, Fitzpatrick didn’t go before the judge. Fitzpatrick is being represented by attorney Eldred “Bud” Adams of Louisa. According to a press release issued by the Kentucky State Police at Post 14 in Ashland, authorities received a report of a vehicle traveling north in a reckless manner on U.S. 23 at 6:28 p.m. Oct. 4, and KSP Trooper Devan Cleaver responded. Cleaver located the tan 2001 Toyota Camry driven by Fitzpatrick and observed violations, at which time he initiated his emergency equipment and attempted to conduct a traffic stop, the release said. But the vehicle accelerated and traveled

GREENUP — A Greenup County freshman was arrested Friday night and charged in connection with carrying a concealed weapon onto school property during the Greenup County High School football homecoming game against Johnson Central. The identity of the 15-year old boy has not been released, but he reportedly had a loaded 9 mm pistol and a fully loaded magazine as well as a box of extra ammunition. Greenup County Sheriff Keith M. Cooper said the student claimed he didn’t plan to use the weapon but just wanted to appear “cool” and that he had purchased the weapon online. Cooper said that the student raised his shirt and showed some football players the weapon, and the players reported it to the coach. Law enforcement was then called. Cooper said that if they are able to figure out who sold the weapon to the juvenile, both he and the ATF are going to want to talk to them. “He’s a boy, but he’s facing a man’s charges, and it’ll be up to the court system to see what happens to him,” Cooper said in a WSAZ interview.

PIKEVILLE — A federal judge has been asked for an injunction prohibiting a Floyd County attorney from dissipating any assets acquired from alleged false disability claims filed with the Social Security Administration. A motion filed last Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Pikeville by plaintiffs in a lawsuit seeks a preliminary injunction against Stanville attorney Eric C. Conn. The motion asks Judge Amul R. Thapar for a preliminary injunction ordering Conn, his law firm and “all those in concert or privity with him to immediately cease and desist from dissipating any and all interest acquired and maintained as a result of law before” the Social Security Administration in an amount at least equal to the $22,699,586.65. That’s the amount Conn, his law firm and others received as attorney’s fees and costs from the SSA as a result of disability claims filed with the agency, according to the motion. The injunction would also affect “any property, securities, or any other property constituting and derived from proceeds obtained directly or indirectly acquired as a result of the false claims submitted to the Social Security Administration which are subject to this action.” Current SSA employee Sarah Carver and former worker Jennifer Griffith filed the lawsuit against Conn and retired administrative law judge David B. Daugherty, claiming they conspired in a scheme to bilk millions of dollars from the SSA through fraudulent disability claims filed by Conn on behalf of clients who

LOUISA — The case of a Johnson County man charged with murder in the death of a motorcyclist following a high-speed chase Oct. 4 was waived to the Lawrence County Grand Jury at his preliminary hearing in Lawrence District Court last Wednesday. Joshua A. Fitzpatrick, 34, of Paintsville, is charged with murder, first-degree fleeing and evading police, operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol/drugs and driving on a suspended operators license. No testimony was heard during the hearing, and although he was present, Fitzpatrick didn’t go before the judge. Fitzpatrick is being represented by attorney Eldred “Bud” Adams of Louisa. According to a press release issued by the Kentucky State Police at Post 14 in Ashland, authorities received a report of a vehicle traveling north in a reckless manner on U.S. 23 at 6:28 p.m. Oct. 4, and KSP Trooper Devan Cleaver responded. Cleaver located the tan 2001 Toyota Camry driven by Fitzpatrick and observed violations, at which time he initiated his emergency equipment and attempted to conduct a traffic stop, the release said. But the vehicle accelerated and traveled

PIKEVILLE — A federal judge has been asked for an injunction prohibiting a Floyd County attorney from dissipating any assets acquired from alleged false disability claims filed with the Social Security Administration. A motion filed last Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Pikeville by plaintiffs in a lawsuit seeks a preliminary injunction against Stanville attorney Eric C. Conn. The motion asks Judge Amul R. Thapar for a preliminary injunction ordering Conn, his law firm and “all those in concert or privity with him to immediately cease and desist from dissipating any and all interest acquired and maintained as a result of law before” the Social Security Administration in an amount at least equal to the $22,699,586.65. That’s the amount Conn, his law firm and others received as attorney’s fees and costs from the SSA as a result of disability claims filed with the agency, according to the motion. The injunction would also affect “any property, securities, or any other property constituting and derived from proceeds obtained directly or indirectly acquired as a result of the false claims submitted to the Social Security Administration which are subject to this action.” Current SSA employee Sarah Carver and former worker Jennifer Griffith filed the lawsuit against Conn and retired administrative law judge David B. Daugherty, claiming they conspired in a scheme to bilk millions of dollars from the SSA through fraudulent disability claims filed by Conn on behalf of clients who

LOUISA — The case of a Johnson County man charged with murder in the death of a motorcyclist following a high-speed chase Oct. 4 was waived to the Lawrence County Grand Jury at his preliminary hearing in Lawrence District Court last Wednesday. Joshua A. Fitzpatrick, 34, of Paintsville, is charged with murder, first-degree fleeing and evading police, operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol/drugs and driving on a suspended operators license. No testimony was heard during the hearing, and although he was present, Fitzpatrick didn’t go before the judge. Fitzpatrick is being represented by attorney Eldred “Bud” Adams of Louisa. According to a press release issued by the Kentucky State Police at Post 14 in Ashland, authorities received a report of a vehicle traveling north in a reckless manner on U.S. 23 at 6:28 p.m. Oct. 4, and KSP Trooper Devan Cleaver responded. Cleaver located the tan 2001 Toyota Camry driven by Fitzpatrick and observed violations, at which time he initiated his emergency equipment and attempted to conduct a traffic stop, the release said. But the vehicle accelerated and traveled

GREENUP — A Greenup County freshman was arrested Friday night and charged in connection with carrying a concealed weapon onto school property during the Greenup County High School football homecoming game against Johnson Central. The identity of the 15-year old boy has not been released, but he reportedly had a loaded 9 mm pistol and a fully loaded magazine as well as a box of extra ammunition. Greenup County Sheriff Keith M. Cooper said the student claimed he didn’t plan to use the weapon but just wanted to appear “cool” and that he had purchased the weapon online. Cooper said that the student raised his shirt and showed some football players the weapon, and the players reported it to the coach. Law enforcement was then called. Cooper said that if they are able to figure out who sold the weapon to the juvenile, both he and the ATF are going to want to talk to them. “He’s a boy, but he’s facing a man’s charges, and it’ll be up to the court system to see what happens to him,” Cooper said in a WSAZ interview.

PIKEVILLE — A federal judge has been asked for an injunction prohibiting a Floyd County attorney from dissipating any assets acquired from alleged false disability claims filed with the Social Security Administration. A motion filed last Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Pikeville by plaintiffs in a lawsuit seeks a preliminary injunction against Stanville attorney Eric C. Conn. The motion asks Judge Amul R. Thapar for a preliminary injunction ordering Conn, his law firm and “all those in concert or privity with him to immediately cease and desist from dissipating any and all interest acquired and maintained as a result of law before” the Social Security Administration in an amount at least equal to the $22,699,586.65. That’s the amount Conn, his law firm and others received as attorney’s fees and costs from the SSA as a result of disability claims filed with the agency, according to the motion. The injunction would also affect “any property, securities, or any other property constituting and derived from proceeds obtained directly or indirectly acquired as a result of the false claims submitted to the Social Security Administration which are subject to this action.” Current SSA employee Sarah Carver and former worker Jennifer Griffith filed the lawsuit against Conn and retired administrative law judge David B. Daugherty, claiming they conspired in a scheme to bilk millions of dollars from the SSA through fraudulent disability claims filed by Conn on behalf of clients who

LOUISA — The case of a Johnson County man charged with murder in the death of a motorcyclist following a high-speed chase Oct. 4 was waived to the Lawrence County Grand Jury at his preliminary hearing in Lawrence District Court last Wednesday. Joshua A. Fitzpatrick, 34, of Paintsville, is charged with murder, first-degree fleeing and evading police, operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol/drugs and driving on a suspended operators license. No testimony was heard during the hearing, and although he was present, Fitzpatrick didn’t go before the judge. Fitzpatrick is being represented by attorney Eldred “Bud” Adams of Louisa. According to a press release issued by the Kentucky State Police at Post 14 in Ashland, authorities received a report of a vehicle traveling north in a reckless manner on U.S. 23 at 6:28 p.m. Oct. 4, and KSP Trooper Devan Cleaver responded. Cleaver located the tan 2001 Toyota Camry driven by Fitzpatrick and observed violations, at which time he initiated his emergency equipment and attempted to conduct a traffic stop, the release said. But the vehicle accelerated and traveled

GREENUP — A Greenup County freshman was arrested Friday night and charged in connection with carrying a concealed weapon onto school property during the Greenup County High School football homecoming game against Johnson Central. The identity of the 15-year old boy has not been released, but he reportedly had a loaded 9 mm pistol and a fully loaded magazine as well as a box of extra ammunition. Greenup County Sheriff Keith M. Cooper said the student claimed he didn’t plan to use the weapon but just wanted to appear “cool” and that he had purchased the weapon online. Cooper said that the student raised his shirt and showed some football players the weapon, and the players reported it to the coach. Law enforcement was then called. Cooper said that if they are able to figure out who sold the weapon to the juvenile, both he and the ATF are going to want to talk to them. “He’s a boy, but he’s facing a man’s charges, and it’ll be up to the court system to see what happens to him,” Cooper said in a WSAZ interview.

PIKEVILLE — A federal judge has been asked for an injunction prohibiting a Floyd County attorney from dissipating any assets acquired from alleged false disability claims filed with the Social Security Administration. A motion filed last Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Pikeville by plaintiffs in a lawsuit seeks a preliminary injunction against Stanville attorney Eric C. Conn. The motion asks Judge Amul R. Thapar for a preliminary injunction ordering Conn, his law firm and “all those in concert or privity with him to immediately cease and desist from dissipating any and all interest acquired and maintained as a result of law before” the Social Security Administration in an amount at least equal to the $22,699,586.65. That’s the amount Conn, his law firm and others received as attorney’s fees and costs from the SSA as a result of disability claims filed with the agency, according to the motion. The injunction would also affect “any property, securities, or any other property constituting and derived from proceeds obtained directly or indirectly acquired as a result of the false claims submitted to the Social Security Administration which are subject to this action.” Current SSA employee Sarah Carver and former worker Jennifer Griffith filed the lawsuit against Conn and retired administrative law judge David B. Daugherty, claiming they conspired in a scheme to bilk millions of dollars from the SSA through fraudulent disability claims filed by Conn on behalf of clients who

LOUISA — The case of a Johnson County man charged with murder in the death of a motorcyclist following a high-speed chase Oct. 4 was waived to the Lawrence County Grand Jury at his preliminary hearing in Lawrence District Court last Wednesday. Joshua A. Fitzpatrick, 34, of Paintsville, is charged with murder, first-degree fleeing and evading police, operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol/drugs and driving on a suspended operators license. No testimony was heard during the hearing, and although he was present, Fitzpatrick didn’t go before the judge. Fitzpatrick is being represented by attorney Eldred “Bud” Adams of Louisa. According to a press release issued by the Kentucky State Police at Post 14 in Ashland, authorities received a report of a vehicle traveling north in a reckless manner on U.S. 23 at 6:28 p.m. Oct. 4, and KSP Trooper Devan Cleaver responded. Cleaver located the tan 2001 Toyota Camry driven by Fitzpatrick and observed violations, at which time he initiated his emergency equipment and attempted to conduct a traffic stop, the release said. But the vehicle accelerated and traveled

GREENUP — A Greenup County freshman was arrested Friday night and charged in connection with carrying a concealed weapon onto school property during the Greenup County High School football homecoming game against Johnson Central. The identity of the 15-year old boy has not been released, but he reportedly had a loaded 9 mm pistol and a fully loaded magazine as well as a box of extra ammunition. Greenup County Sheriff Keith M. Cooper said the student claimed he didn’t plan to use the weapon but just wanted to appear “cool” and that he had purchased the weapon online. Cooper said that the student raised his shirt and showed some football players the weapon, and the players reported it to the coach. Law enforcement was then called. Cooper said that if they are able to figure out who sold the weapon to the juvenile, both he and the ATF are going to want to talk to them. “He’s a boy, but he’s facing a man’s charges, and it’ll be up to the court system to see what happens to him,” Cooper said in a WSAZ interview.

CONN: Plaintiffs in suit seek preliminary injunction

did not qualify for government assistance.

Carver and Griffith testified last week before the Senate Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs, which issued a scathing report following an investigation of Conn and Daugherty. Conn also appeared before the panel but refused to testify, citing his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination.

The 166-page committee staff report was filed as an exhibit to the motion for a preliminary injunction as were affidavits by former Conn employees Jamie Lynn Slone and Melinda Lynn Martin, who also testified before the committee.

A memorandum in support of the motion says their affidavits “set forth in chilling detail Conn’s direct and indirect involvement in the destruction of evidence, the obstruction of justice, the intimidation of witnesses and threats to dissipate assets and flee the country.”

The complete text of Slone’s affidavit is included in the memorandum “to bring to light sufficient facts” in support of the motion.

Among other things, Slone, who worked in a number of positions for Conn from September 2006 to March 2012, says in the affidavit:

- She fielded telephone calls from Daugherty, who called and gave the following information for 30 to 50 Social Security claimants represented by Conn: first name, last name, the claimant’s Social Security number, and either “mental” or “physical.” Daugherty also called to talk to Conn on occasion, Slone said, at which time Conn would ask everyone to leave the room.

- She confronted Conn in 2010 and said, “I have a theory about you, I think you go and meet (Judge Daugherty) once a month.” Conn replied, “Well you know what they say, where there’s smoke, there’s fire.”

- Conn would search the Internet to find doctors with “licensure problems,” such as suspended licenses and pending lawsuits, to evaluate his disability clients. Conn commonly referred to these doctors as “whore doctors,” Slone said.

- Conn personally wrote the analysis for the medical opinion of the x-rays of some clients. “Mr. Conn found descriptions on the Internet of x-ray films,” Slone said. “Mr. Conn cut and pasted these descriptions into his clients’ medical opinions, which asserted the claimant was disabled and unable to work.” Dr. Frederic Huffnagle, who died in October 2010, “signed the opinions and never requested edits,” she said.

- Conn refused to speak to Daugherty on the law firm’s telephone following a Wall Street Journal story about the judge. Slone said Conn told her that he and the judge bought prepaid cell phones to communicate with each other.

- Conn had several employees follow and film Carver, whom he believed was the SSA employee who talked to the Wall Street Journal, in an attempt to catch her leaving home on her “flex-day.” The attempts were unsuccessful, she said.

- Following the newspaper story, Conn stated to Slone and others that “there is no way I am going to jail.” Conn also said “he considered leaving the United States and going to Cuba to avoid going to jail because he believed he could not be extradited back to the United States from Cuba,” the affidavit says. “Mr. Conn stated ‘if I was paying DB (Judge Daugherty) I wouldn’t be dumb enough to leave a paper trail.’” Conn also destroyed certain paper documents after the story was published, against the advice of his attorney. He also directed other employees to destroy hard drives and computers that were no longer used.

- Conn instructed Slone to give an employee of the law firm $10,000 to purchase 10 money orders for $1,000 each to be given to Kentucky Supreme Court Justice Will T. Scott’s re-election campaign. The money orders were in the names of 10 firm employees and were later returned to the employees.

- Conn allegedly attempted several times to smuggle certain women across the United States border. He paid $20,000 to an individual in Canada to rent a boat in St. Kitts to transport his fiancé from St. Kitts to Florida, according to Slone.

Conn has denied the allegations against him and asked that the suit be dismissed. Following his appearance last week before the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee, Conn’s attorney issued a statement on his behalf in which he says he served his clients with “honor and dignity.”

TWO: Lawrence County residents killed in crashes

On Saturday, Oct. 12, a Lawrence County man died in a single-vehicle traffic accident on South Highway 3 at approximately 8:35 p.m.

James Eric Bentley, 25, was pronounced dead at the scene by Wilson.

According to a press release by the Lawrence County Sheriff’s Office, deputies responded to the motor vehicle accident and discovered that Bentley had been traveling south on Highway 3 in a 1996 Pontiac Firebird

OCTOBER IS NATIONAL Breast Cancer Awareness Month, which is an annual campaign to increase awareness of the disease and the importance of screening for early detection of breast cancer. In honor of breast cancer patients and in support of finding a cure, Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center hosted a pink balloon releasing ceremony Friday, Oct. 11th. Breast cancer patients, survivors, family members, friends and associates gathered in front of the hospital to listen to speakers and pray before the release of balloons. Breast cancer survivors were also honored with a pink rose during the ceremony, and drawings for free digital mammograms were also given. Denise Preece, a breast cancer survivor, gave a tearful speech about her battle with breast cancer and her future plans to help those who are fighting this dreadful disease. Statistics from the CDC concludes that about one in eight women born today in the United States will be diagnosed with breast cancer at some point during her life. “All of us know someone who is dealing with this, who is a survivor or who has lost a loved one due to breast cancer,” said Angela Taylor, spokesperson for PBHRMC. “We support them and we support finding a cure for this disease.”

Court opens bids on projects

by Lilly Adkins
ASSOCIATE EDITOR

INEZ — The Martin County Fiscal Court Oct. 8 opened bids for several bridges and the Warfield sewer project.

Four different construction companies bid on the four bridges in District 3, which include the Gamble Cemetery Bridge, Bruce Carter Bridge, David Road Bridge and Shirley Penix Bridge, with J & L Trucking submitting the lowest bid for each of the projects.

District 3 Magistrate Darrell Mills made a motion to accept the lowest bid, which was seconded by District 4 Magistrate John Harmon, with all in favor.

Five bids were opened for the plant portion of the Warfield sewer project, and each was nearly $5.5 million, which is over the original estimate.

Bidders included W. Rogers Company, of Lexington, Bush and Burchett of Allen, Smith Contractors and The Harriet Company, both of Lawrenceburg, and Codell Construction of Winchester.

Martin County Judge-Executive Kelly Callahan pointed out that although all the bids were higher than anticipated, Smith Contractors, with a bid of $5,316,700, was the apparent low bidder.

Kentucky Engineering Group PLLC spokesman Bob Taylor said funding applications were prepared years earlier and the costs have gone up. Taylor also said he would check and see what he could find in the way of funding because all of the bids were similar to each other.

Callahan explained to the court that Taylor would take the information from each of the bidders and then go back and check all their credentials.

“Both of the major funding agencies must approve it, before it is brought back for final approval by the fiscal court,” Taylor said.

Four bids were also accepted for sewer collection, including, C & W Construction of Morehead, BP Pipeline LLC, Karender Construction of Somerset and USRC of Pikeville.

Callahan announced that USRC was the apparent low bidder, but no action was taken.

“This is actually lower than the estimate, which was $2.7 million,” Callahan said.

In other business during the special meeting, Callahan said that he would set the tax rate at the meeting scheduled for Oct. 24, and the court unanimously approved the sheriff’s tax settlement.

Darrell Spence, with a motion from Mills and a second by District 5 Magistrate Victor Slone, with all in favor, was hired as a part-time employee to begin working right away, while filling two other positions were put off until Oct. 24.

Mills explained that Spence could run nearly any piece of equipment at the county garage and was needed now.

No action was taken after court members returned from a discussion of personnel during executive session.

“We will take up the personnel issues on the 24th during our regular meeting,” Callahan said.

Several members of the Hammond family were present to discuss the closure of the Hammond Loop, with some supporting it and some opposing it, and to ask the court for help in resolving their conflict.

County Attorney Kennis

Maynard told them that it would be best for the family if they could find a way to compromise and come to an agreement that would satisfy both sides, but they couldn’t agree.

Maynard said that two people would have to go out to the site and confirm that a closure of the roadway wouldn’t inconvenience anybody and then report back to court with their findings.

“If it’s a public road, we’ll keep it open, and if it’s not, we’ll close it,” Maynard said.

Larry Joe Horn asked the court to form an agreement that would make him the exclusive electrical inspector for Martin County, but no action was taken.

“Right now, we have five inspectors, and four of them are out of the county,” Callahan said.

“Well, he’s from Martin County, so I’d rather see him get it than anybody else,” District 4 Magistrate John Harmon said.

Maynard said Assistant County Attorney Lynette Muncy is researching the issue.

“We are researching and asking about insurance and everything that goes with it, and we will try to have it by the 24th, but there is no guarantee.”

Court members declared a tin building located at Caney Shaft as surplus property, with a motion from Harmon and a second by District 2 Magistrate Gary Hunt and all in favor.

Johnson theft case reversed

by Tony Fyffe
BSN MANAGING EDITOR

FRANKFORT — The Kentucky Court of Appeals Oct. 4 ordered a judge to conduct an evidentiary hearing to determine whether a man voluntarily pleaded guilty to a theft charge in Johnson County.

The appeals court reversed and remanded the judgment and sentence of Charles C. Gambill of Magoffin County, who pleaded guilty to a theft charge stemming from an allegation that he stole more than $1,000 worth of merchandise from Walmart in Paintsville.

Gambill was indicted by the Johnson County Grand Jury in March 2011 on one count of theft by unlawful taking under $10,000 and being a first-degree persistent felony offender (PFO). The indictment claimed Gambill took more than $1,300 worth of items from the Paintsville Walmart.

Gambill pleaded guilty to the theft charge in July 2011, with prosecutors agreeing to dismiss the PFO charge and recommending a sentence of three years in prison to be probated for three years with 90 days’ home incarceration and 30 days’ community service.

But at his final sentencing hearing, Johnson Circuit Judge John David Preston “took issue with Gambill’s extensive criminal history” and denied the prosecution’s sentencing recommendation, according to the Court of Appeals. The judge afforded Gambill the opportunity to withdraw his guilty plea, which Gambill accepted.

In December 2011, prosecutors presented Gambill with a second plea offer, which would allow Gambill to plead guilty to the theft charge in exchange for dismissal of the PFO charge and a three-year sentence. Gambill took the offer and the judge later accepted his guilty plea, the appeals court said. At his final sentencing hearing, Gambill moved to withdraw his guilty plea, claiming he entered it involuntarily because of coercion, the appeals court said, and the judge asked that he cite specific facts to support the request.

“Gambill explained he felt coerced into signing the second plea agreement without adequate time to reflect on that agreements; he was not provided discovery, despite several requests, by his attorney until the morning the second plea agreement was offered; and he lacked a meaningful opportunity to review the requested discovery and the second plea agreement,” the Court of Appeals wrote.

Preston denied the motion to withdraw the guilty plea and sentenced him to three years in prison.

Gambill appealed the decision, arguing that the judge “could not possibly have adequately measured, under the totality of the circumstances, whether Gambill voluntarily entered his guilty plea because the circuit court declined to hold an evidentiary hearing . . .,” the appeals court said.

The commonwealth argued that Gambill was not entitled to an evidentiary hearing “because substantial evidence in the record conclusively proves Gambill entered his guilty plea voluntarily,” the Court of Appeals said, which rejected the prosecution’s position.

The appeals court said the judge “failed to hold an evidentiary hearing to inquire into the factual circumstances necessary to make an informed decision concerning the voluntariness of Gambill’s guilty plea, and failed to issue any finding whether Gambill’s plea was entered voluntarily.”

The appeals court reversed Preston’s judgment and sentence on Gambill’s plea and remanded with instructions to hold an evidentiary hearing to “make a subsequent determination whether Gambill entered his plea voluntarily.”

Johnson PVA issues reminder

PAINTSVILLE — Johnson County Property Valuation Administrator Michael “Dip” Stafford reminds residents in the Paintsville Independent School District that their county tax bills will not include the city school tax.

The city school tax will be included on their city of Paintsville tax bill, he said.

The Paintsville City Council agreed earlier this year to begin collecting the city school tax, a move that officials say will save the city school board money.

Letters to the editor

Editor:

It’s well documented that an informed and educated citizenry is vital for our country to prosper. When the National Defense Education Act of 1958 was unveiled under President Eisenhower, educational television was identified as playing an important role in providing educational opportunities and access to the American people.

KET’s founder, O. Leonard Press, and supporters across the state worked tirelessly to bring public television to the Commonwealth of Kentucky. That dream became a reality 45 years ago when KET signed on for its first broadcast on September 23, 1968.

Over the decades, KET’s commitment to breaking down geographic and economic barriers, and bringing access to education to every Kentuckian, regardless of their background or location, has remained constant.

Today, KET broadcasts (free, over the air) three distinct channels: KET, KET2 and the Kentucky Channel. And their robust website is a great resource for information on topics about Kentucky, education, health, public affairs, and the arts and culture.

We can count on KET to bring us wonderful documentaries, beautiful arts and cultural programs, and timely public affairs programs that keep us informed about the issues facing Kentucky, the nation, and the world.

As KET celebrates its milestone anniversary, we thank you for your support of this important Kentucky treasure that’s dedicated to educating, informing, and inspiring us every day. To learn more about KET, and how you can get involved, visit ket.org.

Secrets to getting the cheapest airfare

by Kim Komando

Kim Komando hosts the nation's largest talk radio show about consumer electronics, computers and the Internet.

The days are getting cooler and shorter, which means the winter holidays are right around the corner. It's time to start planning your holiday vacations! If fact, October is the best time to find the cheapest airfare for holiday travel.

The travel website Kayak crunched last year's numbers and found that Thanksgiving airfares jumped 17 percent after October. Christmas and New Year's Eve fares went up 51 percent and 25 percent, respectively. Yikes!

So, what can you do to make sure you don't overpay for your holiday airfare this year? Booking your flight early is important, of course, but you also need to know where to shop for discount airfare.

Let's start with Google's Flight Search. It's a fast, no-fuss way to search for flights. When you find the flight you want, click the Book button. Google will link you to a website where you can purchase the tickets.

Google Flight Search is fast and easy to use, but maybe you want more search options. Try Matrix. True, Google owns it as well, but it offers a lot more customization.

You can search for flights on a specific airline, for example. And if you're flexible on your travel dates, Matrix lets you search for tickets for a wide date range. That means you can quickly see how much it'll cost to fly on different days of the month.

Timing is everything when shopping for cheap airfare. That's where Bing Travel's Price Predictor comes in handy. You already know that booking early is key to getting the best deal. But the Price Predictor can help pinpoint whether tickets have fallen to their lowest prices, or whether you can save even more by waiting a few days. Bing Travel says most people who use the Price Predictor save an average of $50 per ticket.

Speaking of timing, did you know that airfare prices go up and down depending on the day of the week? New travel research says you can score more deals if you wait until the weekend to buy. The Tuesday afternoon after one airline offers a Monday special is another good time to look. That's when other airlines change prices to match.

Airlines are constantly having big sales. But you don't have the time to scour dozens of airline websites for deals. So take a look at AirfareWatchdog. The site searches multiple airline websites and pulls deals that sometimes don't come up in regular fare searches. Sign up for fare alerts and never miss an airfare sale again.

Have you ever purchased a plane ticket, only to find out about a big price drop afterward? If this happens to you, you might qualify for an airline refund.

Most folks don't know that several major airlines offer airline refunds. If the price drops on a ticket you already purchased, they refund you the difference. Others airlines only give refunds when the price drops below a specific amount.

Yapta is a website that tracks airfare price changes even after you buy your ticket. If the price drops on an airline ticket you've already purchased, Yapta will send you a refund alert. You can even claim your refund through the

Hazard is site of four session SMARTS course

People — including out-of-work coal miners — who are considering starting their own small business can soon access nationally recognized startup training thanks to the Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program (EKCEP) and its Hiring Our Miners Everyday (H.O.M.E.) initiative.

Presented by the Southeast Kentucky Economic Development Corporation (SKED), EKCEP and H.O.M.E. will bring the Entrepreneurial SMARTS course to Hazard starting Oct. 28.

The course gives participants the opportunity to learn more about small business ownership and finding their entrepreneurial niche.

Hundreds of residents around the region have already completed the training and gained valuable knowledge and resources about small business startup and operations.

The four-session, 12-hour SMARTS course will be offered in Hazard Oct. 28, Oct. 30, Nov. 4 and Nov. 6.

Each three-hour session will take place from 1-4 p.m. at the Kentucky Career Center JobSight, Hazard at 412 Roy Campbell Drive just past Wayne Supply.

Through EKCEP and H.O.M.E., all participants will be able to take the typically $300-per-person course at no cost.

To register for the course, people can call, toll-free, 1-855-466-3690 (855-HOME-690).

"We've been hearing many of our customers, including miners enrolled in H.O.M.E., tell us they'd like the chance to turn skills like electrical, plumbing, carpentry and others into a small business of their own," said Jeff Whitehead, EKCEP executive director. "We're turning to Entrepreneurial SMARTS to help these people learn exactly what it takes to successfully start and run a small business, and in turn, help contribute to the economic recovery of our region."

A service of EKCEP in conjunction with the Kentucky Career Center network, H.O.M.E. helps out-of-work miners discover their skills, determine new career options, covers costs for them to enter classroom training, and helps place them into subsidized on-the-job training positions with area employers.

H.O.M.E. is funded through a $5.2 million National Emergency Grant (NEG) from the U.S. Department of Labor's Employment and Training Administration.

Though hosted by H.O.M.E., the upcoming Entrepreneurial SMARTS class is open to anyone in Eastern Kentucky seeking to learn how to start a small business.

A total of 250 aspiring entrepreneurs and small business owners have already completed Entrepreneurial SMARTS (Simple Methods And Reality-based Training for Success) training in nearly 20 sessions offered across the region since the program began in early 2012.

The training is based on a nationally recognized program called the Core Four® Business Planning Course, and is taught by Pat Bradley, SKED small business training specialist.

Bradley is among more than 200 trainers from over 80 organizations across the country who have been certified as Core Four Business Planning

Course instructors.

For specifics on the course, visit SKED's website at <http://www.southeastkentucky.com/smart.asp>.

At Entrepreneurial SMARTS training sessions, participants are instructed in how to create a business plan, including basic knowledge about starting, financing and operating a business and planning for success.

Class participants are also given the tools needed to determine if business ownership is for them. If these entrepreneurs go on to start their own business, this training will give them a tremendous advantage by providing them access to the skill sets needed to properly get their business off the ground and running smoothly.

Upon successful completion of this training, participants receive a certificate recognizing their achievements and are also eligible to apply for business startup or expansion funding from SKED's loan funds.

To register for Entrepreneurial SMARTS, call EKCEP and H.O.M.E., toll-free, at 1-855-466-3690 (855-HOME-690). Also find us on Facebook at www.facebook.com/ekcep.

Ky. Teleworks to host job fair

Kentuckians seeking legitimate work-from-home jobs they can do online will soon have new employment opportunities thanks to a partnership between Kentucky Teleworks and a global call-center customer management company.

And they won't even have to leave their homes to be considered and possibly hired for those jobs.

On Friday, Oct. 18, Kentucky Teleworks will host a "virtual job fair" for home agent jobs with Convergys, a call center vendor that provides customer service, sales, technical support for some of the nation's largest companies.

The session, which will be held at 11 a.m. EST, will allow people to access a special Web site through their home computer to learn about Convergys and apply for jobs with the company.

To register and obtain the web address for the virtual job fair, contact Theresa Noble with Kentucky Teleworks at 606-435-8494 or via email at tnoble@ekcep.org.

Convergys seeks to hire about 100 positions through the virtual job fair involving both full, permanent home agents providing customer service, sales, and technical support, as well as seasonal home agents providing customer support for an online retailer.

Both positions pay $9 per hour, but the permanent home agent positions also feature "a competitive array of benefits available to suit our employees' varied needs," according to Convergys' Web site.

Staff with Convergys will lead the virtual job fairs and give applicants a detailed overview of the jobs, benefits, and computer and Internet access requirements.

Father, son graduate nursing program

DANNY BRAGG (LEFT) and son Zach both graduated from the licensed practical nursing program offered on the Mayo Campus of Big Sandy Community and Technical College in May. The father and son duo intend to continue their education in nursing in the pursuit of both short- and long-term goals.

found both father and son on campus together and the Spring 2012 semester actually had them taking a few classes together. While pursuing their nursing prerequisite courses, both father and son applied to the extremely competitive registered nurse program in spring 2011 but were not selected.

Refusing to be discouraged, they continued with their courses and in spring 2012 attended a nursing pre-admission conference on the college's Pikeville campus.

During the conference, the students were invited to sign-up to apply to either the R.N. or L.P.N. programs. There were three pages of signatures on the R.N. list and only one signature on the L.P.N. list. After some consideration, they both signed up on the L.P.N. list and were later notified they had been accepted into the program.

Getting accepted into the program was the first challenge; making it through the program was the next, and it was demanding. Class schedules were divided into bi-terms and classes were five days a week, eight hours a day. Evenings and weekends were devoted to studying.

However, according to both Danny and Zach Bragg, caring, quality instructors made all the difference. Kim DeRossett, Tonya Workman and Nancy Conn all "work so well together," they said. The instructors "cared about the individuals" and "did what they could to help you succeed," the Braggs stated.

Both father and son graduated from the program in May and completed their practicum for the program during the summer. But neither of them intends to stop there. Both father and son intend to apply to the registered nurse program through Jefferson Community and Technical College, which is offered online in a modularized format. This will enable the two to work while pursuing their next degree. To supplement the online learning, they will also be required to drive to the Jefferson campus in Louisville once each month for a full day of labs with skill set demonstrations.

For their long-term plans, Danny Bragg, 47, intends to stop at the R.N. degree. His wife, an educator in the Floyd County School System, will be eligible to retire within a few years. Danny Bragg would like to become a traveling nurse so he can work in different locations throughout the U.S. and he and his wife can travel together.

Zach Bragg, 22, is considering the possibility of continuing his education beyond the R.N. with the goal of becoming a nurse practitioner.

And their long-, long-term plans are even more ambitious. Danny Bragg's daughter is majoring in pre-med at the University of Pikeville with the goal of becoming a pediatric physician. She would like to unite the family in a medical practice one day so they can all work together in service to local youth.

Although Danny Bragg had to endure an abrupt mid-life career change, the journey with his son has been a positive one.

"I was blessed with the opportunity to be able to go (through college and the nursing program) with him and that's something that very, very few people get to do," he said. What's more is he was able to pursue his education "with 100 percent support from his wife and kids."

If all goes according to plan, Danny Bragg has a lot to look forward to. One day, in the not-too-distant future, perhaps he'll get the opportunity to work with both his son and daughter in a Bragg pediatric practice...blessed, indeed.

PRESTONSBURG – Danny Bragg and son Zach enrolled in Big Sandy Community and Technical College through very different paths but on their graduation day in May, they both walked across the stage as graduates of the licensed practical nursing (L.P.N.) program.

As a student at Prestonsburg High School, Zach Bragg knew college was in his future but he had no idea what he wanted to major in. He even briefly considered following in his father's footsteps and taking a job as a coal miner, a job that would keep him from being stuck behind a desk and offered a living wage. He never thought he wanted to have anything to do with the medical field, until he participated in a mentoring program at the high school that placed him at a local hospital for some job shadowing. It was there he learned that he actually enjoyed the working environment at the hospital and enjoyed helping people. That realization led him to choose the field of nursing and, after graduating from high school, he enrolled in Big Sandy Community and Technical College to begin the classroom work that would move him towards his goal.

In the meantime, Danny

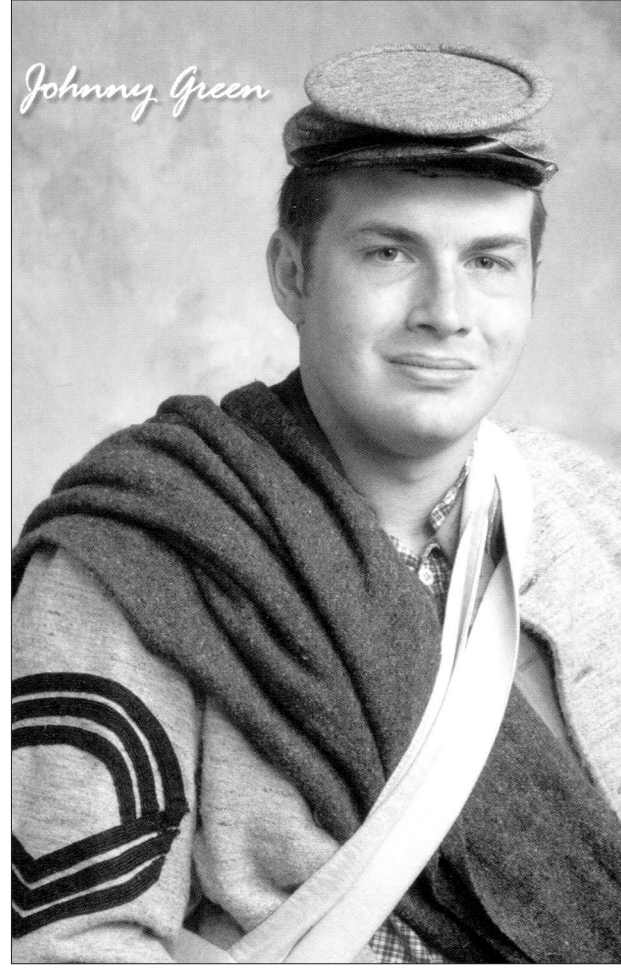

Bragg had two life-altering events occur. First, he was laid off from the mines during the economic downturn and second, he had to helplessly sit by and watch his diabetic father suffer through a variety of health complications due to his illness. Those events led Danny Bragg to the realization that he needed to pursue a different career path in which he wouldn't have to worry about being laid off and one in which he could "do something that would make a difference." He decided to follow his son's lead and chose the field of nursing.

His opportunity to pursue a college education came through the federal WIA (Workforce Investment Act) Program, whose mission is to increase the employment and job retention of U.S. workers. As a displaced coal miner, Danny Bragg qualified to participate in the program, which in turn paid for his college education.

While working as a coal miner, Danny Bragg had already completed an associate's degree in business through an online university. He was then pleased to find that a majority of those credit hours transferred into Big Sandy Community and Technical College.

Bulldogs fall to host Pike Central

BUCKLEYS CREEK — Lawrence County had a four-game winning streak stopped on the road Friday night as host Pike County Central defeated the Bulldogs 26-20.

Pike County Central improved to 4-3 overall and 1-0 in Class 3A, District 8 after posting the win. The Hawks re-entered the win column after suffering a 37-44 loss to reigning Class A state runner-up Fairview one week earlier.

Lawrence County slipped to 6-2 overall and 1-1 in the district after suffering the loss. Resurgent Lawrence County hadn't lost since falling 21-35 to Fairview on Sept. 6.

The Bulldogs had a comeback bid fall short. Pike County Central outscored the Bulldogs 12-0 in the opening quarter and led 26-6 at halftime.

Pike County Central led 26-0 before the Lawrence County struck for its first points.

Pack kicks state record 60-yard field goal

GREENUP — Johnson Central sophomore kicker Tyler Pack set a new state record for a field goal Friday night when he booted a 60-yarder in the Golden Eagles' 54-0 victory over host Greenup County, a Class 4A, District 8 foe.

Pack's kick gave Johnson Central a 48-0 lead. He had earlier missed on a 62-yard attempt.

Johnson Central went with a fair catch after a Greenup County punt at the 50-yard line to set up the state record field goal. Visiting Johnson Central, under the guidance of veteran head coach Jim Matney, opted elected to try a fair catch kick and Pack delivered.

The Golden Eagles remained undefeated, moving to 7-0 overall and 2-0 in Class 4A, District 8.

Johnson Central will be back at home Friday when it hosts Rowan County.

Paintsville drops district opener to Fairview

WESTWOOD — The Paintsville Tigers struck first but couldn't keep up a strong early pace in its district opener against Fairview on the road Friday night.

The win allowed Fairview to move to 7-0 overall and 1-0 in Class A, District 7.

With the loss, Paintsville dropped to 5-2 overall and 0-1 in the district.

The Eagles, under the direction of head coach Nathan McPeck, featured three very productive rushers. Sophomore Tanner Dolen, freshman Kurtlen Brown and junior Armonde Yetts all rushed for 100 or more yards for the Eagles.

Fairview shook a slow start. Paintsville returned the opening kickoff 55 yards, down to the Fairview 30-yard line, and led 7-0 less than 30 seconds into the game after quarterback Mark Fannin connected with Matt Miller on a scoring pass.

The Eagles sputtered on their first offensive drive and were forced to punt. Fairview, however, managed to get going offensively.

Class A, District 7 front-runner Fairview, last year's state runner-up, defeated Paintsville for its 28th straight regular-season win.

Paintsville was held to under 200 yards of total offense in the loss. Kent Phelps led Paintsville on the ground. Phelps rushed 18 times for 90 yards.

Shepherd's dominance highlights UK scrimmage

LEXINGTON — A dominant four-inning outing from junior right-hander Chandler Shepherd and a mammoth home run from junior A.J. Reed highlighted a seven-inning intrasquad scrimmage for Kentucky, on a perfect Friday afternoon at Cliff Hagan Stadium.

A native of Louisa and Lawrence County High School graduate, Shepherd worked four shutout innings, facing one over the minimum, allowing two hits and striking out one. Sophomore right-hander Zach Strecker took over to toss the final three innings, not allowing a run and striking out four.

Black starter Kyle Cody — a 6-foot-7, 230-pound right-handed sophomore, worked four innings, allowing two earned runs, allowing four hits and no walks, striking out two. Austin Perry, Trey Bailey and Spencer Jack each worked an inning in relief.

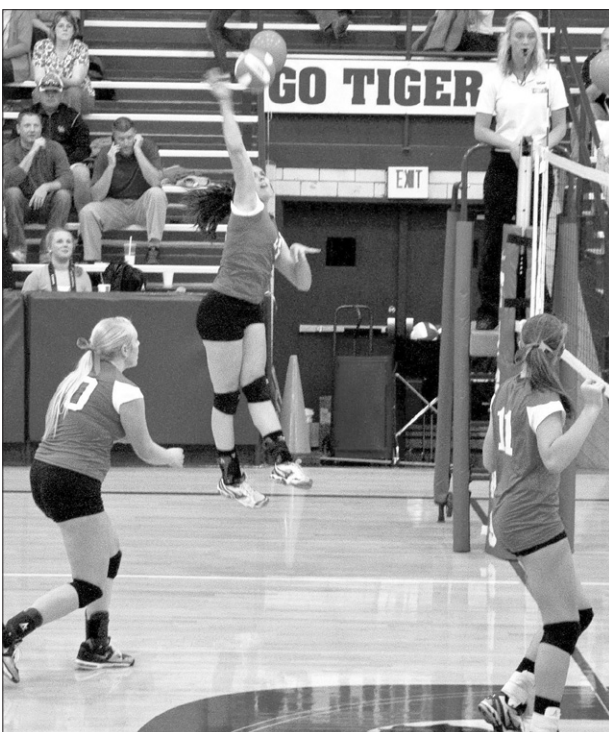

Blue got hits from Austin Cousino, Max Kuhn,

Black got hits from Dorian Hairston, Kyle Barrett Marcus Carson, Thomas Bernal and Matt Reida, with Barrett doubling into the opposite-field gap.

Blue got on the board in the first inning, as Cousino smashed a liner at second base, reaching after the ball popped out of the glove of Andrew Bryant. After stealing second base, Cousino scored on Thomas' opposite-field single with one out.

Blue added to its lead in the bottom of the fourth inning, as Kuhn led off with a single into leftfield, taking second on Thomas' sacrifice bunt. Reed then launched a bomb over the fence in right-field, soaring over the 30-foot wall, over the dumpsters and hitting a tractor on the fly in the parking lot.
